Subject: RE: LSRA Consultation on Admission Policies of the Legal Professions

Hi Orla

Many thanks for getting in contact. I made a joint submission, along with other Heads of Law Schools, some time ago on admissions policies. I have not considered it further, but I do know that the Law Society has recently updated its criteria for admission, and it is now possible for law students completing a law degree to take the exams as they progress through their degree. That is a welcome development for law students, as it will allow them to complete the FE1 exams in parallel with their degree studies.

Kind regards
Shane
